Traineeships and internships

A traineeship (or internship) is a learning and training opportunity that can be experienced in different ways:

- students can undertake curricular traineeships/internships only (or more than one, activated in the same way)
- students who have completed their studies within the preceding 12 months can undertake extracurricular traineeships/internships.

Cosp handles all the procedures relating to the activation of internships in public and private organisations and companies, for students, graduates and postgraduate students enrolled at our University.

In order for traineeships/internships to be correctly activated, all host companies and organisations must provide:

- an Internship Agreement defining the nature of the host institution's relationship with the University (more information on which can be found in the section “Internship Agreements” on this page);
- an individual Training Program for each intern, setting out the objectives of the internship and the procedures for carrying it out, and including details of the tutors (from the host institution as well as from the University), salary (where applicable) and insurance coverage (accident and third party civil liability, and the Inail PAT d'ateneo (National Institute for Insurance against Accidents – University territorial insurance position))
